

Science Slam European iSchools Call for Submissions

The iConference 2022 (Feb. 28 - Mar. 4, 2022 / Virtual / Online) aims to create a social and enjoyable atmosphere at the conference. Therefore social activities will be held at iConference 2022. The EU Social Activity chair will be organizing a Science Slam for European iSchool members at the iConference 2022.

The Science Slam Concept

A Science Slam helps to demystify science by making it less abstruse and more accessible to a broader public. Therefore we call for presentations of European iSchools research being presented in a short and entertaining way by any member of a European iSchool, no matter whether you are an undergraduate student or a professor. Each person or group presenting will have 8 Minutes to present their research project or findings in a funny, captivating, and interactive manner in a video (language: English) at the first round. A jury will choose 5 finalists, who will present their video or live performance at the conference itself at the Science Slam contest. The contest audience will then choose their winner.

Eligibility Criteria

Applicants should:

- be registered students or faculty members of a European iSchool member
- have conducted scientific research
- be willing to grant the iSchools organization the non-exclusive right to publish, under any form, the results of their performance

Application File Requirements:

- Proof of registration/membership at a European iSchool
- Science Slam presentation (8 Minutes, English) as video file (mp4)

Schedule of Activities

- January 24th, 2022 (Midnight UTC+1): Submission deadline
- February 11th, 2022: Announcement of the 5 finalists
- iConference 2022: Science Slam contest and announcement of the winner

Prizes

The winning presentation will receive one free registration for iConference 2023.
