iConference 2022 will feature nearly 100 peer-reviewed research presentations and numerous workshops, panels and other interactive sessions. In addition, there will be multiple keynote presentations by respected authorities from within the information community, and special invitation-only colloquia for early career faculty and doctoral, master's and undergraduate students. Our complete program schedule will be published soon.

iConference 2022 participants will enjoy special networking and engagement features that have been expressly developed to augment the virtual conferencing experience. This includes our Media Library, Social Activities, Round Tables, virtual Exhibition Hall and more.
